MUMBAI — Welcomecure.com, an innovative homeopathy Web site for consultation, diagnosis and treatment at a global level, was formally inaugurated in Mumbai Nov. 9 by chief guest Pratibha Patil, former president of India.

This is something unique in the annals of world medical history, as any global denizen wanting a cure for his (physical, mental and emotional) problems can find the safest, most effective and permanent (read homeopathic) cure and also enjoy a sense of sustained wellness and resistance to health problems.

Homeopathy is the most natural, most rooted mode of treatment that has shown its versatility in a wide range of acute, chronic and communicable/non-communicable illnesses for almost 300 years.

The concept of online health is not a new one. So the challenge was to give something that would ensure a better level of health to patients globally. The vision: "To improve the quality of life of individuals globally and create healthier generations of people."

Welcome Cure is thus a virtual global clinic satisfying the basic needs of a patient: a reliable and experienced doctor, safe and side effects-free medicines and treatment that increases the patient's quality of life

India-West had a conversation with the man behind this path-breaking medical initiative, Dr. Jawahar Shah, M.D. (Hom.) at his office in Mumbai. Excerpts from his interview:

Q: How is the portal doing?

A: Very well, thank you. There were 50,000 hits on day one of the launch and people are coming on site and studying it.

Q: Are you targeting specific problems in today's times?

A: We are looking at all ailments, but certain problems seem to be affecting today's generation more than before — and many of them have no treatment in conventional, or as they call it, modern medicine. Communicable or infectious diseases have taken a backseat to lifestyle issues.

The younger generation, for example, is prone to panic and anxiety attacks, multiple, baffling allergies to so many things, polycystic ovarian disease, and depression in children.

Q: Are some diseases region-specific?

A: Of course, they are! In the U.S.A., herpes is said to affect so many, for which we have got simply wonderful medicines. But for us, it is not just about curing, but more importantly also about what else we can offer to promote "wellness." We are concerned about how people, once they attain good health, remain healthy. We use a holistic approach wherein we prescribe the right diet, exercises and lifestyle. Pranayam and yoga are very important: the mind, emotions and intellect must be looked after.

Q: How exactly does a patient receive treatment?

A: After a patient registers, an online history form is mailed to him or her. We have 10 base-panel doctors who will then conduct interviews on mail, chat or Skype. Then the process of repertorization — which is finding the likeliest drugs — is done and the case sent to the expert that chooses the right medicine, which is then couriered. If the result is not up to the mark, the case is reviewed by the expert panel.

Q: Are the doctors only from India?

A: Not at all. For example, George Lucas, a doctor of medicine in psychiatry from Greece who uses only homeopathy, is on board. There are some others. Many of them are converted allopathic [mainstream medicine] practitioners.

Q: There is still a lot of global resistance to homeopathy. How do you tackle that?

Above: A lineup of distinguished speakers at the Nov. 9 experts' panel on homeopathy.

A: Things change only when people want the change. We have statements from over 100 celebrities the world over about how they benefited from homeopathy in life and careers.
